

A Trailer About You

Amazing Fact

Swedish filmmaker Anders Weberg, has released a 72 minute trailer for his planned 720 hour-long film 'Ambiance', due to be released in 2020. He is also planning to release a trailer that is 7 hours and 20 minutes long in 2016 and a 72 hour trailer in 2018.

Challenge

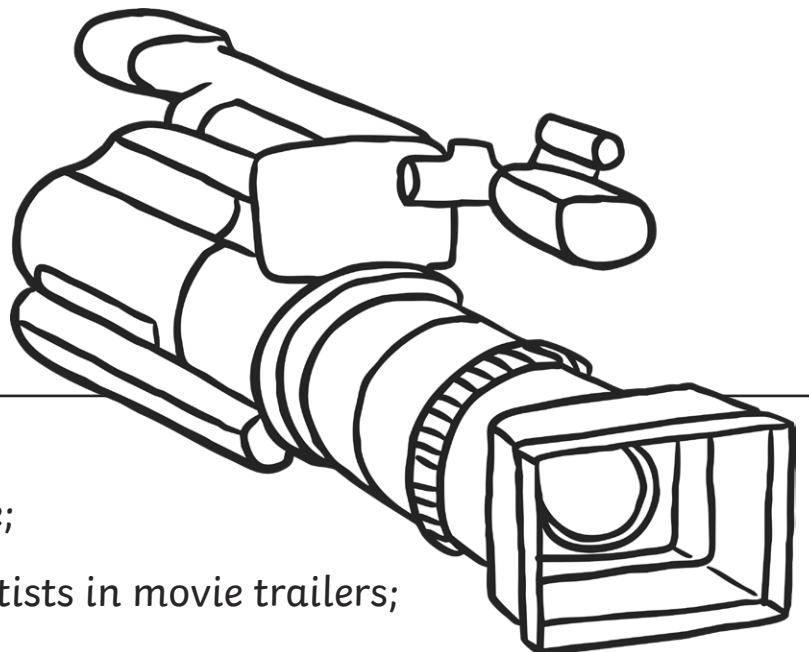

A trailer is a short piece of film used to encourage people to go to watch the main film. Trailers are shown before a film begins. These trailers often advertise films which will soon be in the cinemas.

Imagine your life is going to be made into a film.

Think about what this film might look like. Would it be funny? Serious?

Use the storyboard below to design a trailer to encourage people to come and see the film about you.

Think of a title for the film, then think of the main events which might be in your film. Draw and write about them in the storyboard.

You could also try to find out:

- how long most trailers are;
- about the famous voice artists in movie trailers;
- if you can perfect your movie trailer voice;
- what the longest film ever is.

A vertical film strip with a black border and white sprocket holes. It contains six empty, rectangular frames stacked vertically, separated by thin black lines.[illegible]